

A Night of Honors and Celebration for Native American High School Graduates

By Gary Taylor, Reporting for SCTCA TANF

Nearly 700 people attended the Southern California Tribal Chairmen's Association (SCTCA) 2015 High School Graduation Celebration in early May at the Barona Resort and Casino.

The celebration honored 112 Native American students who graduated this year from high schools throughout San Diego County. The graduates represented 15 tribes, including 18 from San Pasqual and 17 from Barona.

The four-hour event included hundreds of family members, relatives, friends and tribal leaders. Each of the graduates were presented Eagle feathers by tribal leaders in recognition of their accomplishment.

"Tonight is a night of celebration," Barona Tribal Chairman Clifford M. LaChappa wrote in the graduation celebration program. "Earning a high school diploma is extremely important and each of you should be very proud of your accomplishment. Your hard work and dedication is an inspiration to us all and, most importantly, sets a positive example for future generations.

"Receiving your high school diploma will open the door to many choices you will face as you begin the next chapter in your young lives. Make the choice to learn, discover and grow. You now hold the key to a better life.

Congratulations Class of 2015!"

Michaela Castillo, from the Pala Band of Mission Indians and a graduate of Chaparral High School, was the class valedictorian. She intends to major in Viticulture and Enology at the University of California, Davis. Nigteagle Taylor, from the Lipay Nation of Santa Ysabel, was one of two class salutatorians. He graduated from Cathedral Catholic High School and intends to major in Nursing at Creighton University. Raini Tesam-Reading, also a salutatorian, is from the Viejas Band of Kumeyaay Indians. She graduated from Granite Hills High School and intends to major in History with an emphasis on anthropology at San Diego State University.

The evening ended with remarks from SCTCA Executive Director Denis Turner. He congratulated the graduates on their academic accomplishments and urged them to continue their education.

SDSU Native American Graduates Honored at Sycuan Resort

By Karin Giron, Education Coordinator, SCTCA TANF Escondido

On May 2, San Diego State University (SDSU) hosted its Annual Graduates Honoring Ceremony at the Sycuan Golf Resort.

The ceremony recognized Native American Students; American Indian Studies Majors & Minors; Hospitality & Tourism Management Majors with an emphasis in Tribal Gaming and Native American Scholars. Seventeen graduates from tribes throughout the nation were recognized for their achievements.

Prior to being recognized, each graduate was introduced by a SDSU staff or professor. The introductions included remarks about the many programs the graduates participated in and the impact they made while attending SDSU.

Each of the graduates was then given a Pendleton Stole, which was hand-crafted by a local Native American artisan, and a certificate of completion. Many tears flowed from the graduates and attendees, as the graduates shared their struggles and achievements. Graduates thanked their family, friends, and SDSU for their ongoing support. Kellen Hernandez, of the San Luis Rey Band of Luiseno Indians, Masters of Business Administration, also thanked the graduates of the Sycuan Institute of Tribal Gaming. He explained that the economic impact of their work will not only assist the gaming enterprises and the local community, but it would greatly impact tribes, non-gaming tribes, and Native American communities.

According to the National Center for Education Statistics, the number of American Indian/Alaska Native students enrolled in colleges and universities more than doubled in the past 30 years. Yet American Indian/Alaska Natives still represent a small percentage of student populations in colleges and universities. More importantly they were less likely to earn a bachelor's degree or higher than their non-Native peers. Given these statistics, the ceremony at Sycuan highlighted the progress Native American students are achieving in higher education.

American Indian Powwow Comes to Balboa Park

By Karin Giron, Education Coordinator, SCTCA TANF Escondido

On Mother's Day weekend, dancers and singers representing tribes from across North America gathered at Balboa Park for the Annual San Diego American Indian Powwow.

The two-day event was a traditional powwow that emphasized the sharing of traditional song and dance. Dancers were given the opportunity to showcase their specific style. The head staff also hosted dance specials, including the Two Step or Couples Dance; a Northern Traditional dance competition; and the crowd-favorite Potato Dance, in which partners dance while balancing a potato between their foreheads.

The powwow committee also took the time to honor Tishmall Turner for her ongoing dedication to Indian education. Turner is the Tribal Liaison at California State University San Marcos. The committee also honored the late Chairman Leroy Elliott.

The annual powwow was a collaboration effort among many community organizations including The Soaring Eagles, The San Diego American Indian Health Center and the University of San Diego. The event was in conjunction with the year-long Balboa Park 2015 Centennial Celebration. 🖤

Chairman Leroy Elliott

Manzanita Chairman

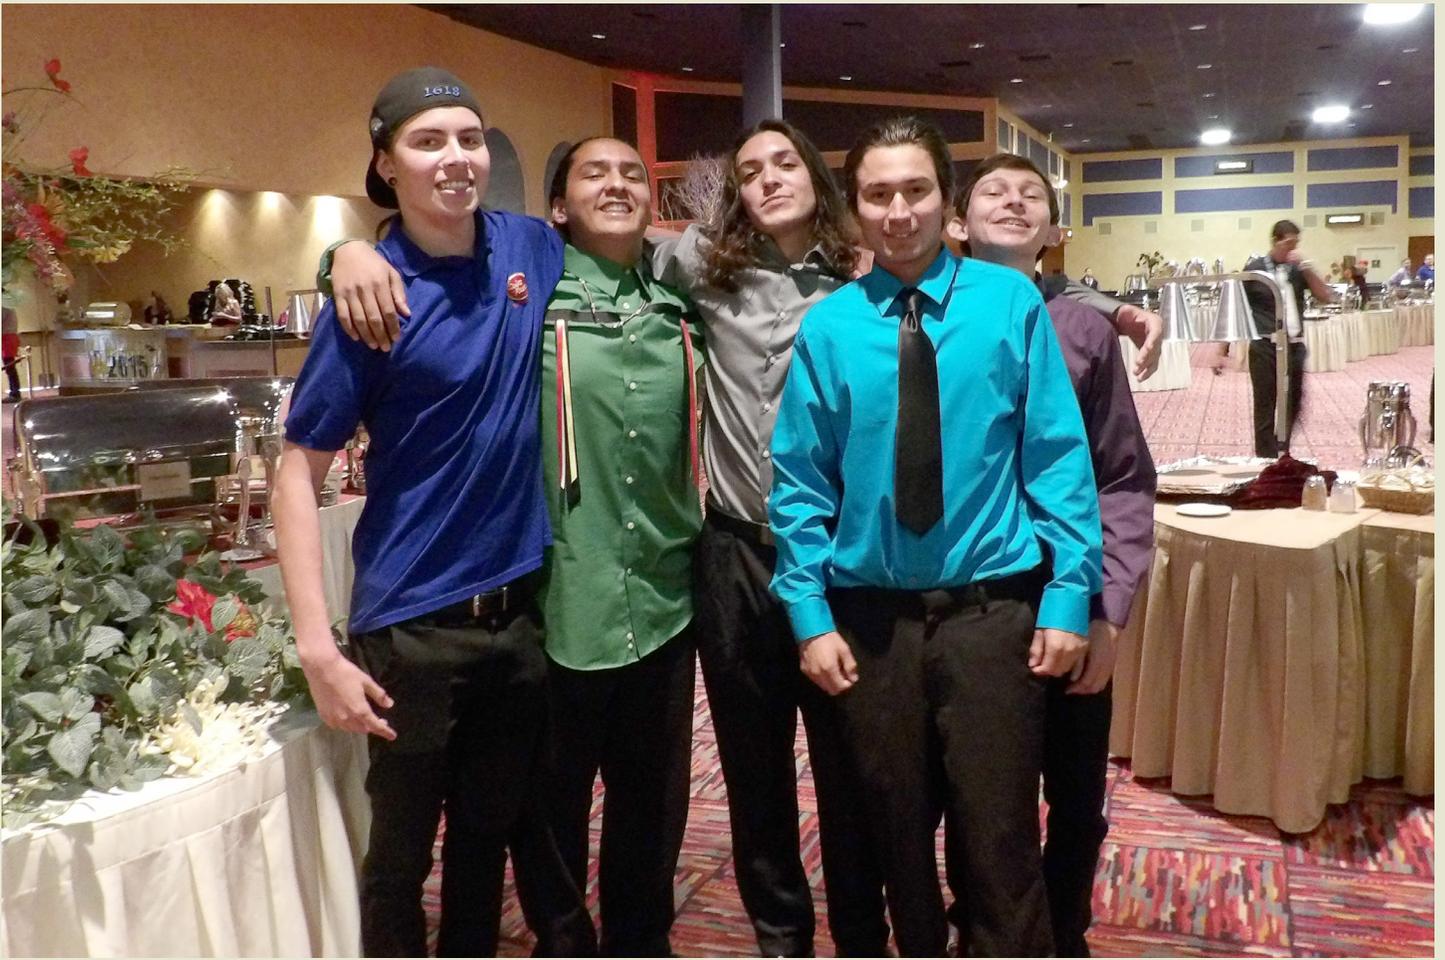

1943-2015

"This is who we are. Be proud."

Leroy Elliott inspired as a spiritual leader, a quiet, gentle man of few words, but much wisdom. As tribal chairman of Manzanita, he passionately carried out his responsibilities, contributing to the advancement of Indian people by helping us reconnect to our roots. He said, "This is who we are. Be proud." Elliott was responsible for the rediscovery and practice of many Kumeyaay traditions from the funeral songs, to language, and Peon, a game that had not been played at Manzanita since 1932. He recruited and taught others the lost funerary songs, beginning with just a few volunteers. Today, there are now 50-60 bird singers of all ages.

Leroy Elliott was a member of the California Native American Heritage Commission, served as Chairman of the Southern Indian Health Council, and member of the Southern California Tribal Chairmen's Associations' Executive Committee. In 2009, Elliott was recognized as an "Honored Elder" at the California Indian Education Association Annual Conference.

Leroy Elliott never failed to be there when someone needed him to lead traditional ceremonies at funerals and wakes, some lasting 24 hours. He was a visionary, with a caring attitude, and grateful to share his gifts with the people. He was fair, uncritical, and thoughtful regardless of the challenges he, or his tribe faced. Chairman, brother, father, grandfather, friend and Kuuchutt, Leroy Joseph Elliott, crossed over on March 18, 2015. A respected Kumeyaay Elder, he was dearly loved and will be greatly missed by all whose lives he touched and changed.

Class of 2015 Valedictorian and Salutatorians

Southern California Tribal Chairmen's Association High School Graduation Celebration Class of 2015 Valedictorian Michaela Castillo

Pala Band of Mission Indians

Graduating from Chaparral High School

Attending University of California Davis, Fall 2015

"I am greatly looking forward to seeing how my education will affect my life and the lives of others."

As a high school student in my senior year I am looking forward to furthering my education to a higher level. College has always been an incredible adventure that I am willing and eager to finally get to. I am overjoyed to say that I was accepted at (UC Davis). UC Davis has accepted me in the Viticulture and Enology program, where I hope to earn a Bachelors of Science. Being Native American and one of the three only members in my family to go to college is a great honor and a true testament to what we as people and a race can do. I hope that my experiences at UC Davis will allow me to bring what I learn about agriculture to the tribe and its people.

Southern California Tribal Chairmen's Association High School Graduation Celebration Class of 2015 Salutatorian Nigteagle Taylor

Iipay Nation of Santa Ysabel

Graduating from Cathedral Catholic High School

Attending Creighton University, Fall 2015

"I have confidence that I will thrive and succeed."

I am very blessed to say that I will be attending Creighton University in the fall for a degree in Nursing. I am very excited for the opportunity to further my education at such a prestigious university. At Creighton I will learn about the intricacies of the human body, diseases, human anatomy and physiology. Most importantly I will learn how to care for people at the holistic level. I believe this is a very important skill that can be used in the Native American Community. In my experience, the Native community not only wants to be nurtured physically but also spiritually and emotionally. I believe that I will be able to better understand and serve the tribal health care system. It has been a long and arduous road that has led me to this point. I lived with my family on the Santa Ysabel reservation. Times were difficult when I was young. We had no electricity, plumbing or heating. During this time, my parents made it a priority that I receive an excellent education. This was never easy and the living conditions on the reservation were harsh. But I would do it all over again because of the education I received laid the foundation for my future success. I have every intention of returning to the reservation to care and educate Native Americans. Education is such a key component of living a successful life and the more Native Americans who become educated, the stronger our tribal community will be!

Viejas Band of Kumeyaay Indians

Graduating from Granite Hills High School

Attending San Diego State University, Fall 2015

"I plan to rise above the numbers, I intend to make history."

For years I have worked tirelessly at my primary schools to be the best I can be. Studying and sleepless night have been part of my daily ritual for quite some time now. All of this work has just been preparing me for the time and place in my life where I can truly succeed, a four-year University. I will be attending San Diego State University and plan on studying history with an emphasis on Anthropology. For as long as I can remember I have been fascinated with the past and everything human beings have left us. I have a dream that one day, I will have the opportunity to spread my passion for history to the people of my tribe. I want to educate, inform and inspire my community. I hope to reach out to the elders of my tribe and other tribes to spark memories of the past and bring them to the forefront of new generations. I want to bring history to life in the eyes of native children. My community has given me so much, especially the motivation to pursue my own dreams!

California State University San Marcos Graduation

Hillery Lopez was one of the eight Native American graduates from California State University San Marcos (CSUSM) honored at a special ceremony in early May.

Hillery is a participant at Southern California Tribal Chairmen's Association (SCTCA) Escondido TANF. She received her Bachelor of Science Degree in Nursing. She obtained her degree while also caring for her four children with her husband Michael.

Hillery and her family attended the American Indian Graduation Honoring Ceremony inside the entrance near the courtyard next to the California Indian Culture and Sovereignty Center (CICSC) on the CSUSM campus. About 50 family members, relatives, tribal leaders and educators also attended the two-hour event.

The ceremony included a blessing by Christobal Devers of the Pauma Band of Luiseno Indians, a brief address by CSUSM President Karen Haynes and CICSC Director Dr. Joely Proudfit.

The event was sponsored by CICSC.
